

Rockford Molded's Quality Management System (QMS) is in place. Our documentation is complete. Our equipment is calibrated at proper intervals. Our procedures are traceable to NIST standards.

What does all of this mean to you? Quality, quality, quality! It took years of hard work, but it's worth it. We wouldn't expect you to invest your trust in us without a little investment of our own.

Quality doesn't just mean a product is well-built or created with a high standard. Although we measure ourselves in this regard tremendously, quality to us also means an essentially inherent or distinguishing characteristic; a property. Quality is what distinguishes us from others. After 70 years in business, our name has withstood the test of time because our work has quality. Taking pride in our products is a quality not many manufacturing companies have in the age of low-cost global manufacturing.

Let us prove our commitment to quality to you.
